CENTERING SURVIVORS FOR TRANSFORMATIVE CHANGE:
EXPLORING ECONOMIC SUPPORTS TO PREVENT SEXUAL AND INTIMATE PARTNER VIOLENCE WITH FREEFROM

Monday, October 25, 2021
11 AM-12:30 PM PT/2 PM-3:30 PM ET

PreventConnect is a national project of ValorUS, formerly known as the California Coalition Against Sexual Assault sponsored by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. The views and information provided in this web conference do not necessarily represent the official views of the U.S. government, CDC or VALOR.
Objectives

- Describe the connections between survivor-supportive and survivor-centered economic security and preventing sexual and intimate partner violence
- Identify additional economic support strategies for sexual and intimate partner violence prevention including and beyond those already widely supported in the field
- Discuss opportunities and challenges for our own organizations and the sexual and intimate partner violence movement to support the financial security of those whose labor is critical to serving survivors and preventing violence

National Capacity Building Center on Safe & Supportive Housing for DV Survivors

Demonstrated Needs:

A. Safe, accessible and affordable housing and the economic means to maintain stable housing

B. Domestic violence programs assistance in helping survivors navigate housing programs and accessing resources

C. Housing programs struggle to meet competing demands, and they lack survivor-centered, trauma-informed and culturally appropriate approaches

D. The majority of domestic violence, homeless/housing and runaway/homeless youth services are mainstream programs that replicate oppressive and discriminatory practices

E. Strong correlations between domestic/dating violence, racism, housing instability and economic security resulting in disparate outcomes for Black, Indigenous and People of Color (BIPOC) survivors and families

FREEFROM’S APPROACH

We envision a world where survivors have sustaining income, savings, and credit with which to build wealth and the resources to support individual, intergenerational, and community healing.

To that end, we are taking a holistic approach using technology, peer-to-peer networks, training programs, policy advocacy, social enterprise models, and cross-sector solutions.

COST OF ECONOMIC ABUSE

98% of survivors report being subjected to economic abuse.

On average, survivors reported:

- Harm-doers steal $1,280 from them each month.
- Harm-doers restrict their freedom to spend an additional $1,090 of their own money as they see fit each month.
- Harm-doers incur $15,936 in coerced or fraudulent debt in their names each year.
- They lose out on $23,076 of income every year.
- They incur $17,770 in property damage costs every year.
FREEFROM PILLARS

● Building a Sustainable Movement: Supporting the anti-violence movement in centering economic security for all survivors and building their financial capacity.

● Growing our Collective Power: Creating tools, resources and environments to support survivors’ collective economic and community power.

● Catalyzing Societal Action: Bringing in our society’s institutions as part of the ecosystem of support.

● Advancing Culture Change: Data collection, storytelling, and research to shift the narrative from crisis response to systemic change.
How can policies and practices that support survivors’ financial independence prevent sexual and intimate partner violence?

Text Chat Question

Use the Text Chat feature to answer the question.
FINANCIAL CAPACITY BUILDING
COMMON WORKPLACE FINANCIAL PRACTICES

- Conversations with survivors about employment, housing, public benefits
- Anything related to salaries/hourly rates, including submitting timecards
- Organizational and program budgets
- Grant writing and reporting
- Money conversation among teammates
- Employee benefits and policies
- Hiring
- Staff turnovers

What others can you think of?
The #1 obstacle to safety for survivors is financial insecurity. It follows, then, that the key to safety—and in particular long-term safety—is financial security.

The goal of this report is to illuminate what will enable staff working in the intimate partner violence (IPV) movement to prioritize client economic security and, from there, provide a roadmap for what building financial work could look like.

1. Staff working in the IPV movement are not able to support clients in building financial security as much as they would like, but given the opportunity, they have very clear ideas of what more they could do and a willingness to do it.

2. The key obstacles to prioritizing financial security at an organizational level revolve around a lack of flexible funding. Funding specifically for financial work with clients and training staff is needed, along with more unrestricted funding to foster greater innovation.

3. The key obstacles to individual staff doing more financial work are a lack of training and financial education and the need for greater financial security themselves. They feel ill-equipped to teach what they have not experienced.

4. Prioritizing financial security in the movement requires meaningful investment in staff well-being. We must begin by acknowledging that many staff not only experience financial insecurity but also identify as survivors.

There is clearly a disconnect between staff’s perceived understanding of their client’s financial needs and the support offered.
We asked staff what it would take to prioritize client financial security.

They said:

1. Expanding funding specifically targeted for the financial security of clients
2. Training and resources for staff on assisting clients with income building, debt management, credit repair, etc.
3. Greater financial security for staff
4. More flexible funding

BUILDING SURVIVOR CENTERED WORKPLACES
SURVIVORS WORKING IN THE MOVEMENT

1 in 2
staff members we spoke to identified as survivors

1 in 4
staff who identified as survivors reported still being in contact with their harm-doer

1 in 5
staff members do not feel completely safe at home

The average salary reported by staff was $35,436 after tax.

This means that, on average, none of the staff in our study currently earn enough to support themselves and a child.
FROM A SERVICE PROVIDER:

“I feel like if we were all financially secure that, we [could] all work better. Because we wouldn't have to worry about that car bill that's due next week and stuff like that, and that we could just focus more on the clients...and not have to be stressed about how we're going to keep paying our bills.”
Some recommendations from staff in our study included:

1. Living wage salaries

2. More comprehensive benefits, including coverage for family members and part-time employees

3. Expanding paid time off by creating wellness days and encouraging staff to take vacation

4. Improvements to schedules and workload, such as lightening caseloads, hiring more staff, and flexible work schedules

5. Building an open and supportive culture for survivors on staff

What would it mean for sexual and intimate partner violence prevention and survivor support if sexual and intimate partner violence organizations prioritize the economic security of those working in the movement?
COLLECTIVE POWER
WHAT IS COLLECTIVE POWER

- Building a survivor led movement
- Collective voices with shared experiences uniting to bring about change on the local and federal level
- Storytelling through data and research that centers and uplifts survivors of marginalized groups (e.g. BIPOC, transgender, system impacted, folks who are undocumented)
- Community

How are you currently supporting survivors creating collective power?
SURVIVOR SAFETY FUND

Over 7,200 survivors received cash grants of about $244 over the last year.

● Only requirements:
  ○ Self identify as a survivor of GBV
  ○ Safe way to receive money

● Trust-based giving meaning survivors could use that money however they wanted and we did not require follow-up on what money was used for or proof/receipts

● Of those who did follow up, most commonly used for food and utilities
SURVIVOR SAFETY FUND - SURVIVORS HAD TO SAY:

“I was able to pay my car payment without feeling worried. I was able to purchase a new bed for my daughter, too. It was the first time in almost two years where I felt free(!) to purchase something, without guilt. That FEELING is what you most afforded me. Some breathing room and a sense of normalcy.”

“The cash came just in time to fix my car. Not having a vehicle makes it difficult to get groceries (I use EBT so I can’t order online). Also, my child’s dad has threatened to keep her or change custody when I don’t have transportation to drop her off at the court ordered time and location. So, the timing of this grant was a huge relief.”
SURVIVORS KNOW BEST AND TRUST SURVIVORS

FreeFrom released two reports on what we have learned thus far from providing survivors with flexible cash grants. Our last Safety Fund round closed in 6 hours due to high demand and we currently have 2,000 survivors on our waitlist. Our hope is to encourage more agencies and institutions to create their own flex fund programs or re-design existing grant programs to be more flexible.

- Survivors Know Best (data to support flexible cash funds):

- Trust Survivors (7 steps to ensure flex cash grants as survivor-centered and data to support):
SURVIVOR FINANCIAL PEER-TO-PEER GROUPS

Survivors come together in a peer-to-peer setting focused on achieving financial freedom and building community while sharing and receiving resources that encourage healing, safety, financial security, and overall well-being. These are survivor led peer-to-peer financial support groups independent of any agency.

Contact Em Jackson at em.Jackson@freefrom.org for more information.
PROGRAM DESIGN

- Hands-off
- Flexibility
- Trusting survivors to navigate their healing and providing support
- Reaching ALL survivors, regardless if they stay or leave
- Offering groups nationwide
- Continuously innovating to meet survivors where they are
SURVIVOR-CENTERED SAVINGS PROGRAM

Survivors get matched up to $40 a month for a consecutive 6 months

● Optional and survivors decide when they want to start
● Eliminating restrictions like needing a bank account
● Trust-based reporting system
● Motivating
● Create a habit of saving

EXPANDING THE ECOSYSTEM OF SUPPORT

71% of survivors were not seeking services at a DV/SA org when they applied for a Safety Fund grant.

- Survivors who identify as women were 2x as likely to be seeking services from a DV/SA org as survivors who don’t identify as women.
- Heterosexual survivors were more than 3x as likely to be seeking services from a DV/SA org as queer survivors.
- Only 17% of Indigenous survivors were seeking services from a DV/SA org compared to 31% of survivors who do not identify as Indigenous.
Employers

70% have never sought support from an employer as a survivor

59% of those who have sought support, 59% received no help or reported the support they received was unhelpful

47% would seek support if they knew services and support for survivors were available.
STEPS EMPLOYERS CAN TAKE

● Implement a survivor paid leave policy
● Create a savings match plan for employees
● Facilitate peer groups to foster community amongst staff (e.g., self-care, financial, or savings groups)
● Start an emergency fund to cover expenses and payroll in emergencies
● Create a flexible schedule and working environment
● Cover the cost of childcare
● Offer emergency grants to survivors experiencing abuse
● Offer health insurance to all employees and allow low-cost addition of family members onto policies
75% have never sought support from a bank as a survivor.

64% of those who have sought support, 64% received no help or reported the support they received was unhelpful.

51% would seek support if they knew services and support for survivors were available.
STEPS BANKS CAN TAKE

1. Offer accounts that meet BankOn’s National Standards
2. Keep survivors’ contact information confidential and secure
3. Implement enhanced fraud protections on survivors’ accounts
4. Offer Safety Accounts for survivors
5. Designate internal team to handle survivor accounts
6. Hire FreeFrom to train bank staff to detect, prevent, and respond to economic abuse
7. Allow survivors to open accounts with ID and address alternatives
8. Offer interest-free deferred payment emergency loans to survivors
9. Refrain from reporting defaults on coerced / fraudulent debt to credit reporting agencies
10. Offer flexible repayment plans for survivors in default
11. Provide paid and protected leave and other resources to employee’s experiencing abuse
Honor the feelings, thoughts, and ideas that came up in this training.

- Write them down. Draw them out. Sit with them. Make a To-Do List. Talk about them with someone. Give them space in whatever way is meaningful to you.
- Take a couple deep breathes, move your body, look away from your computer, drink water, and/or grab a snack and think through your last thoughts.
Thank you!
