secondary, but depending on situation, could be primary should be primary ... that's the goal

before

hi sandra ibarra primary = before ANY violence occurs

Although safety plans being available EVERYWHERE can be a part of a primary prevention strategy? maybe?

primary and secondary okay, I take it back. :)

what a chilling image, Larry!

it all makes sense

Raise your hand or write in a question

What is being done on the legislative level ?

social marketing was a huge component of the anti-tobacco campaign in Florida *(also empowerment of youth) :)

Isn't working with youth to give them healthy skills early intervention when the unhealthy alternatives/norms is normal?

Do you think the norma about violence against women has changed in the past 20-30 years?

Send in questions you might have or raise your hand.

I know we are starting with parent discipline, but how do we do more in families?

Roadblocks that we had: using posters created by dept of health for sexual violence awareness - principal thought they made students uncomfortable b/c they used the word rape.

We need to outreach at an early area to change the norm

How many towns have a Hooters? We can link the objectification of women with violence against women by picketing and boycotting/girlcotting.

One thing that needs to be addressed re: violence and youth are the video games that promote violence

Adjust "we need to outreach at an early Age to change norm.

can you give that address again?

I am a victims advocate in an emergency room setting....We are seeing more and more of the teen aged victim...rape is on the rise as well in the young adult...

They even have a "Hooters Airlines" - we can change our company policy to say we'll never fly Hooters Air. It's in my contract rider now.

Archives of old sessions are available at www.PreventConnect.org under past conferences

Outreach must occur at a much younger age is rape more on the rise or are more victims seeking help?

tobacco program used youth to target people who were targeting them (empowerment) thru social norms

how can we effectively dispell myths of glorifiing violence?

It is important to educate teachers, and all of the school administration in providing programs such as MyStrength at schools.

good question....we believe it may be more seeking help more rape victims are seeking help

hope so

HAVE you looked at changing how siblings treat each other - (i.e a fight helps them solve problems) and these relationships can be the foundation for futre relationships

These comments are great. We will post all of the text chat on www.PreventConnect.org and I encourage you to pose questions like these on the Prevent-Connect Listserv (you can join at www.PreventConnect.org).

training law enforcement officers

No company meetings or meal functions at Hooters change workplace policies/norms at my university more mandated reporting in the medical field. A more systematic way of medical reporting.

training police officers, corrections officers, judges, attorneys, etc.

What organizational practice changes have you made or advocated for to promote prevention of violence against women

I would LOVE to see mandatory curriculum beginning in grade school

Day Care providers being aware of gender stereotypes implementing ethic of prevention in department of family services social worker positions

Trainings in the police academy about violence prevention community/school/professional presentations

trainings, advocate training

empowerment based employee policies, empowerment based job descriptions

I haven't because organizational practices has always looked like secondary prevention to me - how a business can respond when someone in the office is being abused.

Training for all employees in workplace violence.

Mandatory education at the middle school level challenging my religious community to consider becoming more egalitarian in sermons, services more prevention in the schools, community and agency resources training law enforcement & atty's treatment of survivors

schools need to take part

Addressing individual comments and letting people know negative behavior is not acceptable looking at agency mission statements - do they include prevention?

Teach young boys to respect girls early in life

educating families and especially starting in elementary school up through the college level education about why this is necessary and not "unfair" to address the specific practices towards women in our culture

zero tolerance by teachers of sexual harrassment in schools

School Policies

Universities should change athlete behavior policy to prohibit sexist activities, bullying and hazing

Coordinated Community Response (CCR) team 11 local agencies working together

Do a creative piece throught the "Ad Council".

impact of domestic violence on the workplace

the ultimate primary prevention providers are PARENTS & families before child even leaves house

addressing the issue through prime time shows training probation and parole officers in the dynamics of violence against women

cogent policy

Equal pay for equal work :)

Employer DV policies - don't punish the victim for taking time off for court, don't move the victim, move the abuser, etc.

Training for PD and helping the Schools ideals of what does and does not happen in there schools regarding VAW

High school teams speaking out against violence

College greek system respect for men and women students at the high school we work with created PSA's that are posted on local websites

parents, school, follow the development chain as education path

Cultural Understanding

cancel some of the young people's music

parents not pressuring kids to have boyfrind /prom

Mandated workplace training on DV, SA, VAW

Make people realize violence is an issue and happens everywhere.

predatory accountability laws like II.

Parents leading by example begin at an early age at home.

fostering accountability within organizations communication within families regarding violence free relationships is key prior to working @ PCAR - did int'l. development and incorporated HIV prevention (in less developed countries) and policy within US-based org.

Title X recipients mandated to counsel minors on sexual coercion

Mandatory screening practices in mental health agencies education about respect for women = respect for all or promote, or compel music producers to promote music that provides prevention education

Law enforcement represents a system that needs changing about their norms toward women and violence in general

Teaching children and students to be filters rather than sponges when it comes to media. Censorship isn't the answer, but kids can be informed consumers.

PCAR or NSVRC

yes, Daniel - maybe involve youth in discussions about violence in music.

Studying the language that we use in our everyday lives. I think it is FULL of violent terms. If we looked at our favorite quotes and our mission statements, and the grant requests that we write, we have violent, isolating language all over the place (target population, bullets, etc)

Educating Law enforcement agencies because they work with all people who are at risk.

nonviolence TV programs

These articles will be posted at www.PreventConnect.org

The article, Sexual Violence and the Spectrum of Prevention, will be posted at www.PreventConnect.org and www.PreventionInstitute.org

Men Can Stop Rape can be reached at www.mencanstoprape.org and you can order posters through them

As usual, you've been very creative with the technology, very eloquent in your teaching. Greta, thank you and Larry, your hair looks great!

Training from birth on how we as equal people treat each other. Done in homes, hospitals, churches, schools, community organizations, LE, etc.

Thanks!

How do we fight the rewards that power and control offer?

Thanks!

Thank you for all your information!

When's the next chat?

What a great use of technology!

as a beginner in the field, this intro forum was extremely helpful, thank you

Thanks for a very informative and fun afternoon!

Terrific webinar!....so many things to be accomplished.....

Thanks - great info - feeling supported moving toward Social Justice!

looking for funding sources for a non-profit, can anyone help

i'm interested in active learning models that encourage men's involvement in ending gender based violence. if you can help me/have ideas, please send me an email: atlanticvolunteer@cciorg.ca

We need more information on turf issues and internal organizational animosity due to the multi level spectrum work that connects some advocates in contact with political bodies and frequent travel while office staff remains at the phones/desk.

Perhaps more men would get involved if the terminology were sex-neutral, i.e. "Prevention of Intimate Violence." etc

I think men could become involved if it was called

men's violence

since that way, it's clear that it's our gender's responsibility

Thank you.

i can't get the evaluation

To get men involved, we need to be more pro-active

thank you, great job!!

thank you.

Very informative, thank you!!!

Ben, I saw your website this morning from the listserv. I forwarded it on to our Men Against Violence coordinator. You may be hearing from him but violence Paul - violence perpetration is NOT gender neutral it is male that need to change

you folks at the Prevention Institute are awesome! Yay for you, and thank you!

You can also get the evaluation at <http://www.surveymonkey.com/s.asp?u=74612966978>

Thanks, Marti! Bye, everyone!

Great Presentation! Everyone take care, Bye now!

Is it possible to get copies of the slide presentation?

That is, electronic copies?

I also would like electronic copies

We have copies on PDF format at www.PreventConnect.org
